

As we all navigate through the COVID-19 crisis, Gulton remains operating with a normal schedule to provide compatible thermal print heads for your printing needs. During these uncertain times, Gulton wants to provide our products to continue the supply chain that so many people depend on and require.

Gulton is following the guidelines set forth to prevent the spread of covid-19. Additionally, we are ensuring our vendor community is sending us product we can trust and utilize in our process.

Gulton will continue to monitor the situation so we may continue to provide products to our customer base globally in a safe manner. Thank you for being a valued customer and trusting Gulton with your compatible thermal printing needs.

May you all stay safe and healthy
